Old and New

Since the turn of the century, progress in many different ways has been carried on by both the school and the community together. As our city has grown, so have we, until now we have reached a high goal in the advancement of education. And right along with this has come the construction of many new residential districts, buildings, and the numerous improvements of Main Street—most recent of which was the widening and paving of the streets, a far cry from the rutty, dirt roads of the yesteryear.

With the incorporation of Austin as a city came the advancement of the railroad industry, now employing a vast number of Austin's laborers, and the starting of the dairy industries. The demand for entertainment outside of the home brought the rise of many social clubs, dance halls, and theaters; this, too, prompted the need for a newspaper whose publication readily followed.

As the desire for a hospital became greater, a board of directors was appointed and from this came the construction and staffing of St. Olaf, a landmark of old Austin.

The dream of a greater Austin dominated the people and, as this spirit increased, the growth of a banking system developed and the Hormel industry was started, thus carrying on and developing the many phases of progress that was started so many years ago by our pioneer residents who knew that someday Austin would be as it is now.

Alma Mater

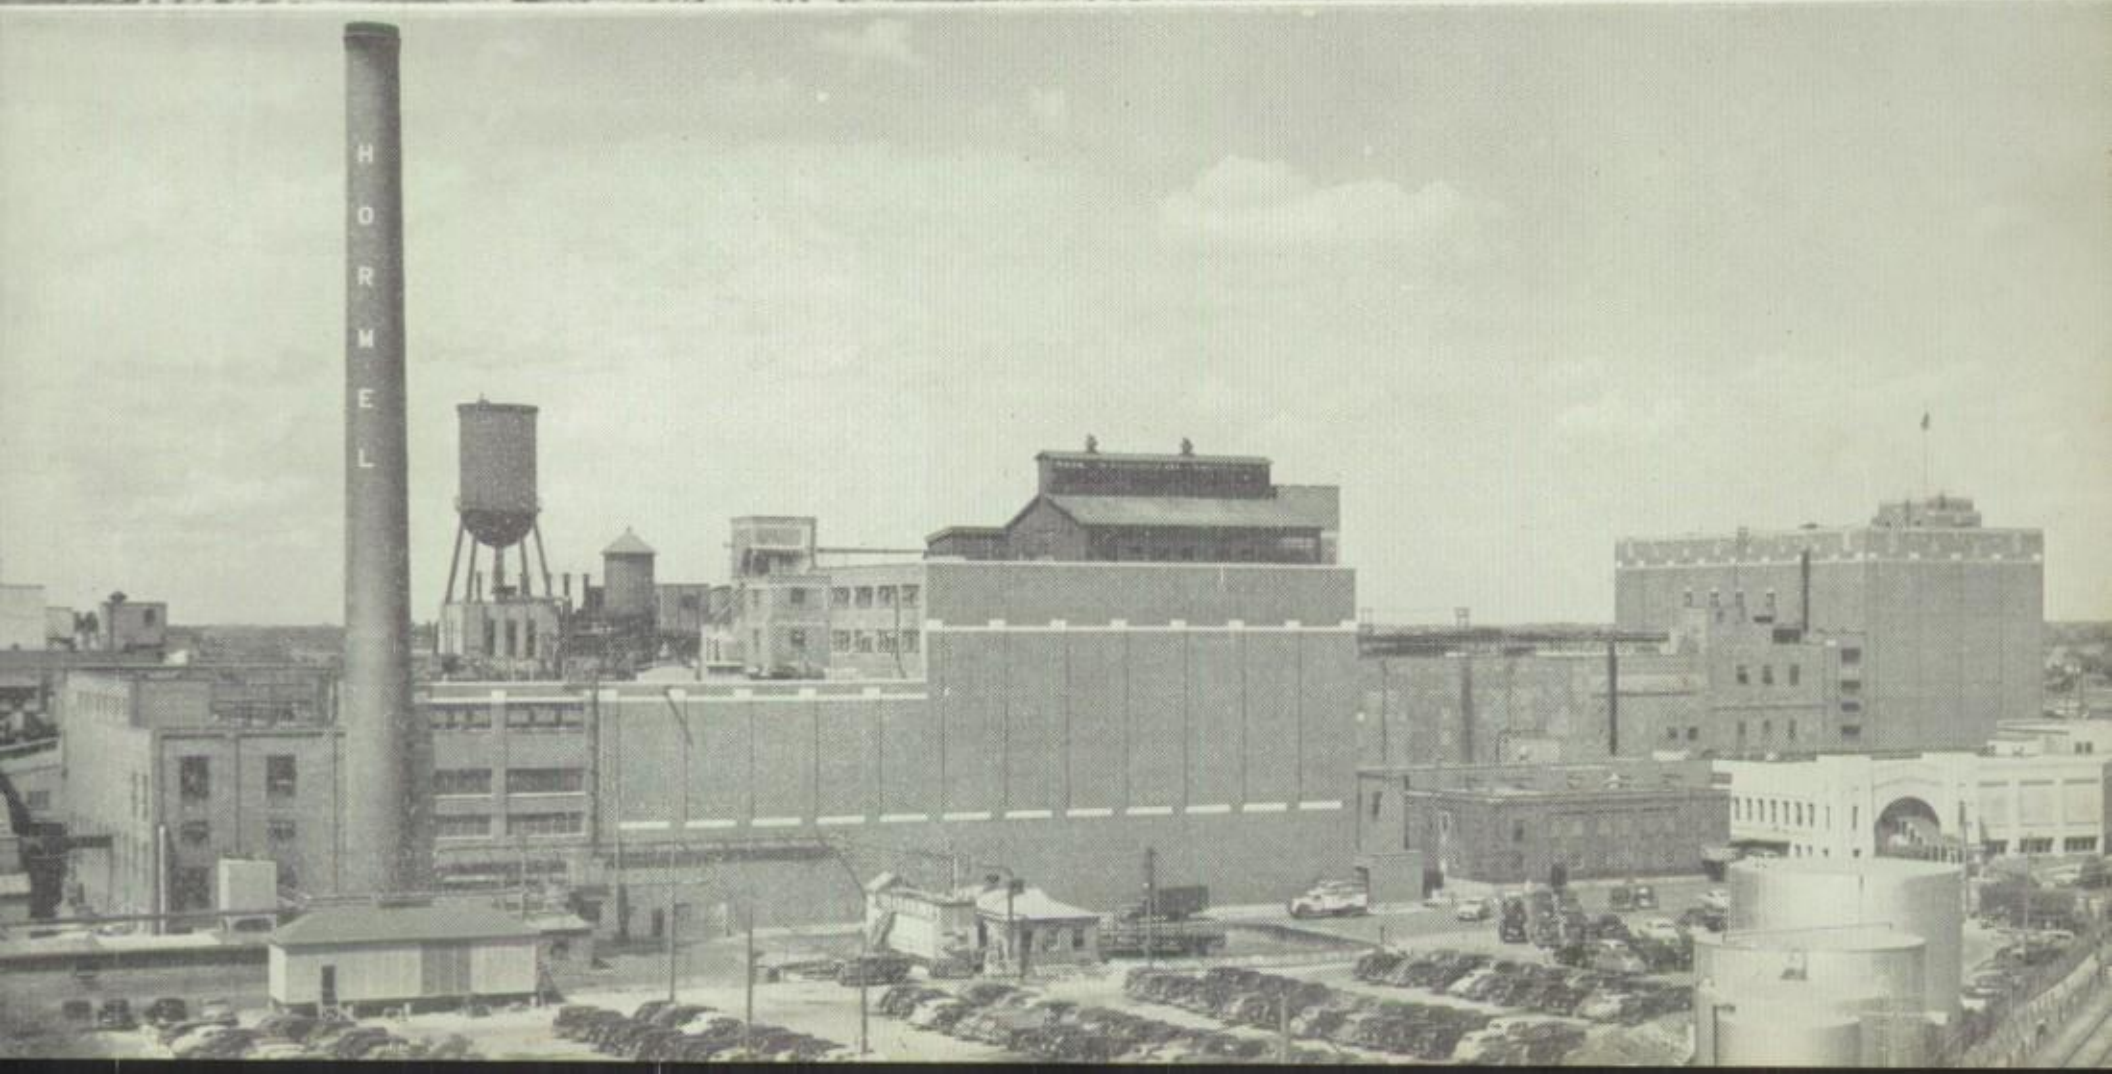
Much advancement in the portals of learning has been made since the beginning of Franklin grade school, now replaced by the high school addition. Since then, Austin has erected eight schools, with another under construction, for both grades and high school, to carry on the education of the ever-growing population.

Many vocational courses are offered, and there are adult evening classes along with a veteran's training program for anyone wishing to further his knowledge in almost any field. Junior College offers chances to go to school while taking advantage of the many part-time jobs and in planning for the future.

Austin Has Industry

The present plant and business of Geo. A. Hormel & Company have developed steadily year by year since the packing house began operation over 50 years ago.

Last fall saw a rural emergency when heavy windstorms toppled cornstalks and other crops. Student volunteers worked in the fields to help farmers to save their corn.



Poise for Boys and Girls

Football dates back to the early years and is second only to basketball in interest. Baseball, a runnerup in popularity, gains during the summer months.

Championship kicking form was demonstrated this fall by Earl Hallum of the 1949 conference title eleven which took second in the statewide Litkenhous rating.

Well groomed, well-dressed girls showed the modern "do" of ladylike attire to Friendship Club at a style show. The "don't", both old and new, was shown too.

Julie Christianson and Arlene Babb wore approved costumes. Barbara Moeykins was the only one who liked her outfit which illustrated poor grooming.

Hail the Queen

When the leaves start to fall and the grass begins to turn brown, it's time for you to look forward to one of the most important happenings of the year—Homecoming.

Festivities are opened with the snake dance and bonfire.

The crown, which was finally anchored on Queen Carolyn Miller's head, was bent and scarred. Walt Varco, president of the Student Council, had trouble making it stick, and two false starts found the crown on the floor.

Mr. L. S. Harbo

Austin's New Superintendent

We are proud to welcome to Austin a school leader who has taken over the job of heading the Austin Public Schools.

He is Superintendent L. S. Harbo, previously of Winona, who has come to Austin this year. Among other superintendencies, Mr. Harbo has been at Red Wing and at Litchfield.

High qualifications and recommendations are required of superintendents. The position includes managing the high school, the junior college, and the several scattered grade bulldings. Outlying rural districts also come under the Austin jurisdiction.

Mr. Harbo is an ardent sports fan and was introduced to high school students at an early pep fest.

Schoolboard

Our school board plays an extremely vital role in the lives of the Austin Schools. Into its hands falls the responsibility of setting up a budget for the operation and repair of the schools. The construction or enlargement of a school also is its job.

Members of the school board are elected by the people in the community. The board elects the superintendent, who in turn has the job of selecting the faculty.

Mr. Roy Tedrow, Dr. P. A. Lommen, Mr. H. O. Westby, Mr. L. S Harbo, Mr. Kleo Gildner, Mr. S. L. Coumbe, Mr. Brooks Cutter, Mrs. W. B. Grise.

Mr. Ray M. Wescott

Ticket Sellers

Good sportsmanship ranks high in the school as far as the faculty is concerned. They turn up at every game in large numbers. You will notice when you buy your ticket, that the faces behind the windows are those of your teachers. Faculty members are kept busy all year as they have charge of the ticket sales for both the basketball and football games.

Biology Class

It can't be a mouse or the general attitude would not be one of such calm. Working with a microscope is fun appreciated by all the students in biology classes. Another diversion which offers stimulation, fresh air, and exercise, is the field trip. Students are fortunate in having these frequently spring and fall.

Aching Arches

Getting all set for graduation ceremonies can become quite a task. Boys always seem to have trouble with their stiff shirt collars and ties while the girls struggle over two and three-inch heels. Walter Varco, Student Council president, helps Lois Hopfe, Friendship Club president, ease her tired feet.

College Plans

Many students who graduate from high school find it desirable to continue their schooling at Austin Junior College. Here students have a large choice of courses to follow and they also may carry a part-time job to help cover college expenses. (Moe, Bustad, Miss R. Fisher, Hanson, Lestrud)

Orchestra

Some of the best music heard around the school this year was the product of hard work by all members of the orchestra. Helen Nelson gives out with a tune that will add to the final result of Mr. Paul Heltne's instructions.

Parties

Informal parties are always fun. Eating and "gabbing" are usually the highlights of such get togethers; but as many of us know, other strange things do happen. (Godfredson, Togas, Christianson, Meister, Haydon, Nestegard)

Part-Time Work

Nearly one-half of the total 304 seniors are employed in part-time jobs. Margaret Peterson finds that part-time employment not only offers many opportunities, but also gives one that feeling we call "security".

Field Day

At the field day lunch the senior boys proved what makes them so big and strong by practically cleaning out the cupboards of the cafeteria. By the end of the day, though, that stored up energy was quite valuable. (Lingbeck, Johnson, Kester, Drake, Lewis, Brown, Hyland)

Autographs

Jean deTienne and John Jones found it difficult to get to classes on time because of the rush of female fans clamoring for their autographs. Katherine Swenson and Lois Coddington were the lucky girls.

Senior Activities

The leaders of the 1950 senior class, treasurer, Lois Hopfe; president, Carl Gaddis; secretary, Audrey Plath, and vice president, Eugene Goick, were elected to their offices by the student voters. As leaders of the class they try to find out what the students want and then put forth ideas for additions or corrections to the already planned schedule of senior activities. Most activities are concentrated in the spring and include the class play, senior skip day, field day, the prom, baccalaureate, and graduation ceremonies.

The officers' duties include selecting a baccalaureate speaker, planning senior skip day activities, handling commencement and class play tickets, and selecting senior graduation announcements. They continually strive to better relations among the students and to get their opinions in all important class matters.

Looking Back

As we go back over the last twelve years, many pleasant and also many not-so-happy memories are brought to light.

There will be many times when we shall reminisce with old high school friends over the special classes that we looked forward to, class films, quarter tests, book reports, assemblies, pep fests, and study hall periods. We cannot say that school was all work and no play; for we have memories, too, of games, dates, mixers, and parties that also contributed to our education.

A gradual change has taken place in us as seniors. We began our last year with a more serious manner, for we realized the importance of a good education. Some students even carried part-time jobs so as to enrich their opportunities and to become more dependent upon themselves as individuals.

Let us now begin to consider ourselves adults, for the time has come when we shall face life's problems and share in all events that were once meaningless to us. It is strange to think of some seniors graduating after just getting by in all their studies, for it is more their loss than the school's. All of us have used the same resources but to different advantages. It is no good to be sorry now; the opportunity has been given and is no longer at our disposal. If there is changing to be done, it is now up to the individual.

There is a special honor in graduating when we know that in no other country in the world could we have had such variety in our education. We are fortunate to have had so many friends on the faculty who gave us guidance and encouragement in our studies and vocational interests. Let us be proud that we are better persons for having been a part of the Austin High School.

Freshman Fun

Many of the students come in by bus. These students either eat in the cafeteria or bring their lunches. On nice sunny days they stand around in groups outside the building. Nancy Svejkovsky and Ann Carlson share a popsicle in front of the building.

Cutting Capers

Each fall the junior high grades have class parties to help them get acquainted. They dance, play games, and have refreshments. A typical shot of a ninth grade party shows Evelyn Lee and Julia Plantage dancing and the boys sitting.

Tea Time

The seventh and eighth grade Friendship Clubs, largest clubs for junior high girls, annually hold Mother-Daughter Teas. The girls do all the decorating, planning, serving, entertaining, and cleaning for the tea themselves.

Home Ec. Huddle

Many junior high girls study home economics. They learn to sew and cook and how to take care of a house. A group of seventh grade girls is working on dresses which they have made by themselves. When they finish they may have a fashion show.

Latvian Lass

Valeta Bumbiers, a seventh grader who hails from Latvia, has made remarkable progress in her school activities. Imagine the difficulties she must have encountered in learning our language and customs. She likes our friendliness.

Classwork

Visual education, a term unknown to our grandparents who sometimes enjoyed the "flickers", plays an important role in everyday class work.

It is a rare day that has no films scheduled at school. Often two and three departments are shown films the same day. For independent classroom use, the school is also equipped with slide projectors, opaque projectors, and portable film projectors.

Another form of ear learning is being promoted through the use of recorders. The newest member of the recorder family in Austin is a tape machine whose use is supplemented by a wire recorder. Music and public speaking classes hear themselves as others hear them.

Despite all the modern innovations which help to make a school day varied, students look forward to forms of relaxation entirely separated from their classrooms.

Leading the list is the athletic program, and most popular of the sports is still King Basketball. Club meetings and initiations, projects and parties are done on an organized basis. Less orthodox are the out-of-school parties and impromptu fun which are a necessary part of student life.

Football Squad Wins Big Nine Title

We students who are attending Austin High School during the middle of the twentieth century will long remember the football season of 1949. As the years go by, we can sit back and recall the thrills and excitement which were so typical of these games.

For instance, there was that first game of the season with St. Paul Washington. Classes had been in session only a few days and the team which Austin sent out on the field was green and inexperienced. Fans were afraid Austin wasn't going to have much of a team and would probably be on the receiving end of a number of defeats before the season was over. Remember the thrill which ran through the crowd when Austin pulled the game out of the fire in the fleeting moments of the last quarter?

Spirits rose sharply when the Packers came through with another victory over Minneapolis North the following week. Then came that battle with an inspired Owatonna eleven which held the home boys to a scoreless deadlock.

Suspense and excitement filled the rest of the season for the Austin rooters as they watched their gridmen gaining in experience and playing ability. Rochester fell, followed by Red Wing. In succession Albert Lea, Winona, and finally Faribault were victims of Austin's powerhouse.

Our 1949 Austin grid team was not made up of individual stars. It was all-around team-work and fighting spirit which led Austin to the Big Nine title and second place in the Litkenhous sports rating for the state.

The end of the 1949 football season marked the final game for a number of outstanding seniors. Among those who will graduate this spring are Earl Hallum, a great line backer; Dick Knowlton, a sparkplug in the line play throughout the season; Creighton Sayles, a line stalwart who was elected captain of the squad; Walt Varco, who did a fine job of helping Dick Lees in the quarterback slot; and Jim Ingersoll and Chuck Johnson, two scrappy linemen. Charles Dial, Gene Goick, Gordon White, Richard Johnson, Leroy Koch, Eugene Cherney, Marcus Brooks, Duane Brown, and Ed Wirtz were all valuable men.

Although Coach Red Hastings is losing many outstanding players this year, he will still have a number of his regulars back in the fall to bolster the squad. Returning to action next fall will be several of the 1949 starters including Dick Lees, Jim Woolsey, Ken Pack, Ed Zimmerman, Bill Redman, Jerry Marsh, and Dale Hamilton.

Other veterans are Norbert Bawek, Dick Dastyck, Ed Smith, Bill Rishavy, Earl Barnett, Don and Dayle Rasmussen.

Season's Summary

ST. PAUL WASHINGTON 13-12

As the closing minutes of the season's opener arrived, Austin was trailing 12-6. In the last 58 seconds, Austin scored its winning touchdown after pass interference was called on Washington. Dick Lees did the scoring for Austin.

MINNEAPOLIS NORTH 14-7

North scored first, but Austin fought back and a series of passes from Lees to Woolsey finally resulted in a touchdown. The powerful Austin line held North to a net gain of 15 yards by rushing in the second half. Zimmerman carried the ball over for Austin's final score.

Austin's chances for a Big Nine conference title suffered a severe setback in this game which was marked mainly by sharp defensive playing. Scoring threats which didn't materialize were common.

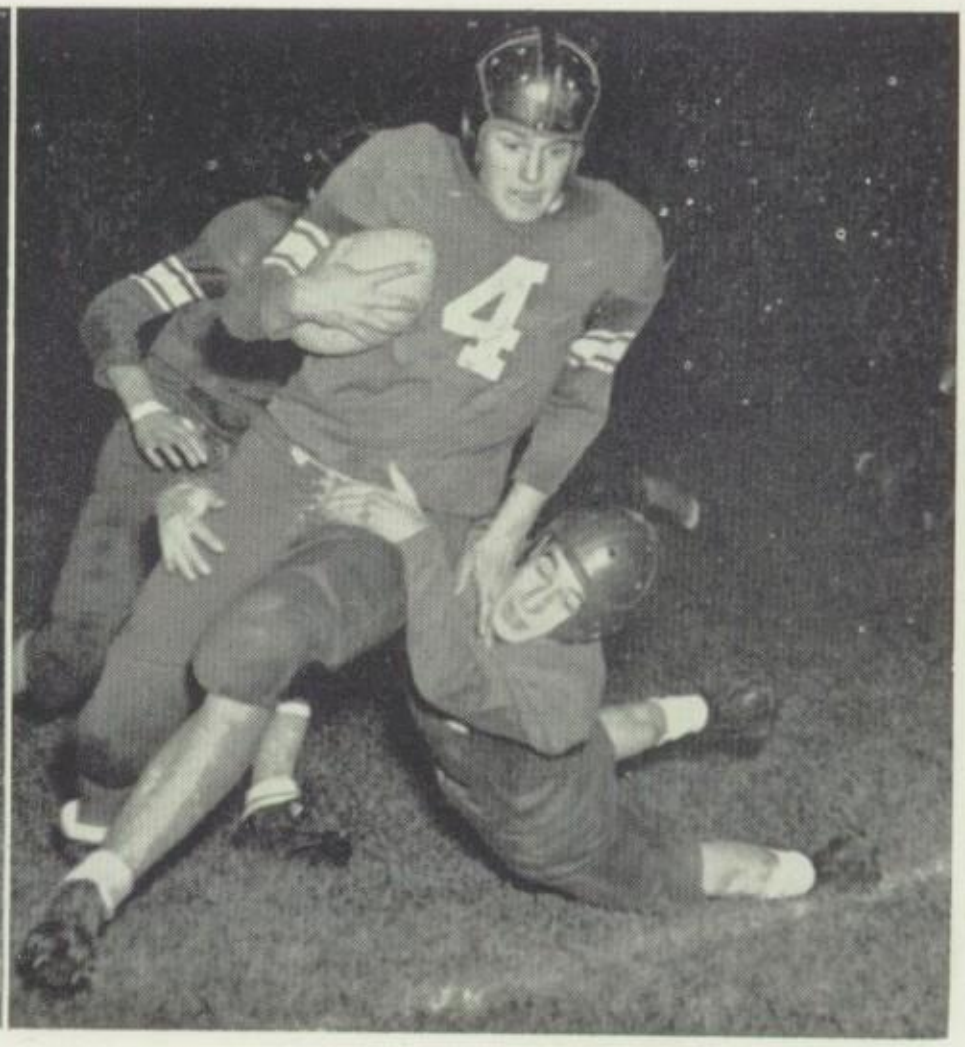
ROCHESTER 21-13

Austin's first game away from home resulted in a 21-13 victory over Rochester. Two of Austin's touchdowns were scored on passes from Lees to Pack and Woolsey. The third was made by Walt Varco.

Minneapolis North: Ken Pack
Faribault: Jim Woolsey, Jerry Marsh

St. Paul Washington: Walt Varco, Earl Hallum

Albert Lea: Dick Lees



Minneapolis North: Jim Woolsey, Dick Lees, Ken Pack.

Football Summary

RED WING 7-0

A scrappy Red Wing eleven gave Austin a hard time in the first half of this game. Finally in the third period, Austin marched 52 yards down the field and Varco carried the ball over. The line play for the Packers was excellent.

Albert Lea: Bob Hastings, Coach Hastings, Coach La Beau, Fan, Referee.

ALBERT LEA 24-6

Austin scored all three of their touchdowns in a wild second period. Two of these were on passes and the third on a quarterback sneak by Lees. Marsh added the three extra points and kicked a 22-yard field goal in the third period.

WINONA 22-6

In an outstanding performance, Austin smashed the Winona eleven and moved one step nearer to the Big Nine title. The play of Eddie Zimmerman who scored once, and Dick Lees who added the other touchdowns, was exceptional.

FARIBAULT 26-0

The outclassed Falcons didn't have much of a chance as the mighty Austin men pounded out their fifth conference victory for another Big Nine title. In the scoring department, it was Lees, Woolsey, and Zimmerman.

Gridders Practice

Football at Austin High has come a long way in the first half of this century. How many fans are still around who can recall the days when the team played their games at Lafayette Park on Saturday afternoon? We didn't have any fine stadium in those days; if you wanted to see a game you either stood up or sat on the ground. The games themselves were rough and rugged and the players wore little padding. The practice sessions were even less fun. It was a lucky boy indeed who could go home at night after drills without some bruises or bumps.

Even today few people stop to realize the grueling labor and long hours of practice that go into the making of a championship aggregation. Whether it's football or any other sport, the real work—the acquiring of skills, the development of the body and muscles, all take place during practices. Here we see the boys in some of their nightly three hour sessions. It's here the players learn to block, tackle, run, pass, kick; here at chalk talks they learn the strategy of good football; here they have their first taste of combat while scrimmaging.

Packer Prepsters

The Austin "B" team opened the season slowly by taking a beating from two more heavily manned teams. Blooming Prairie ran wild to run up a score of 45-0, while a strong Grand Meadow aggregation outpointed the Austinites 12-6.

These early losses were justifiable because of the inexperience of the boys; but, as the season progressed, the capable coaching of Ray Lemmerman and "Sky" Wilcox managed to bring them back into the win column.

The "B" squad had an up and down game this season. After losing the first two, they came back to fight the Albert Lea "B" team to an 8-0 decision. In this their season's peak they also whipped Faribault by the score of 19-6.

Consecutive losses to three teams sent the boys into their season's slump. They were bested by an improved Albert Lea team 6-0, by Adams 26-0, and by a strong Owatonna club 8-0. In the last contest of the year, they handed the Rochester "B" squad its worst setback of the year 40-0.

Undefeated Cagers Sweep Big Nine

The middle of the century found another great basketball squad at Austin High. Coach Ove Berven's boys copped the Big Nine Conference title with a 10-0 record and lost only one game in season's play.

A heart-breaking defeat at the hands of Albert Lea in the district tournament kept the boys from going on to the regional.

Lettermen graduating this spring who will be sorely missed next year are: Dick Hanson, Dick Anderson, Bob Richardson, Bill Johnson, LeRoy Koch, Ken Ahlgren, and Don Freeberg. The juniors who earned letters, Jack Gildner, Dale Hamilton, Dick Lees, Burdette Haldorson, Dave Walker, Jerry Marsh, and Don Miller, along with the boys coming up from the B squad, will make up next year's team.

District Tourney

A hard-fighting Austin quintet was upset in the District Two tournament by Albert Lea, 41-36. It was a close contest all the way as the two teams were never separated by more than four points. Ove Berven's boys went down fighting, and it was just a question of Albert Lea hitting and Austin not being able to find the range.

Both teams were off during the first period and Austin led by a slim margin, 7-6 at the end of the quarter. They improved their lead to 17-13 at halftime. From then on, things didn't fare so well for the Austin cagers. Albert Lea tied up the score 27-27 at the end of the third period and finally pulled ahead 33-31 at the automatic time-out. Austin never managed to regain the lead after that. Bob Richardson and Jack Gildner were high-point men for Austin with ten points apiece.

After defeating Austin, Albert Lea went on to capture the District Two title by winning from LeRoy 48-32.

Basketball Flashbacks

The Austin basketball team opened the 1949-50 campaign by downing last year's state champs, St. Paul Humboldt, 48-40. After trailing at half time 26-23, they spurted in the last two periods to win by an 8-point margin. Richardson and Wangen were high point men with 17 and 12 respectively.

Coach Ove Berven was able to use his whole team against Minneapolis South in a high scoring game which ended 55-36 in favor of the Scarlets.

A determined North squad handed the Austin cagers their only defeat during season play 44-38. It was a hard-fought game all the way with Austin rallying in the last two periods only to have North cinch the contest in the final seconds.

Season Thrills

Austin grabbed its first conference win in a close game with Rochester 37-34. A last-minute rally by the Rockets was staved off effectively by the Berven men. Gildner and Richardson did the large part of the scoring with 10 and 11 points.

Austin's fourth victory of the season came against a determined St. Paul Mechanic Arts team, 50-42. Koch, who sparked Austin's attack in the third period, and Richardson tied for high point honors with 12 each.

It was an up-hill fight all the way for the Scarlets and it took a fourth quarter rally to win from Albert Lea 41-40. After trailing 25-19 at halftime, the Packers came back in a last half spurt to obtain their advantage. Dale Hamilton scored 12 points.

Winona came to Austin primed to upset the home quint. They almost did before the Packers rallied to win 44-39. Dick Anderson was the boy who pulled the game out of the fire for Austin by sinking a couple of timely baskets in the fading minutes of the game. Johnson scored 13 points.

Cager All Stars

Austin literally ran over a weak Mankato team as they held them to seven field goals, four of which came in the fourth period against the reserves. Final score was 49-25. Center Bob Richardson, playing one of his best games of the season, took scoring laurels with 9 points to his credit.

Austin upset the pre-game dope by downing a favored Owatonna team 52-47. Richardson led in the scoring department with 12 points, while Hanson's great defensive work was outstanding.

An outclassed Falcon cage team never had a chance as Austin trampled them 48-24 for their sixth straight conference victory. Heading the scoring column for Austin was Gildner with 12 points.

In what was probably the most thrilling game of the season, Austin won from Albert Lea 59-58 in the last six seconds of play on a shot by Dick Anderson. The individual play was exceptional with Johnson hitting for 19 points, and Gildner for 16.

Austin continued its winning stream in a close game with Rochester 49-45. Richardson scored 16 points and Johnson netted 12.

Austin clinched the Big Nine title in a lopsided contest with Northfield 55-35. Outstanding work was done by Gildner who scored 11 points and by Dick Hanson who did a fine job in controlling the rebounds.

The Austin cagers closed out a successful season by winning their tenth straight Big Nine conference game from Red Wing 47-44. Richardson sank 11 points.

Bees Triumph

Blair Hainer's B squad finished their season's slate without a blemish. This is good for any team, but for a B team it is exceptional. By downing such teams as Blooming Prairie and Hayfield, they proved that they had superior shooting ability plus outstanding defensive tactics.

Downing LeRoy 30-29 in their initial contest the Baby Packers showed their ability in the clinch. After winning the first three games by narrow margins the sophs really hit their stride by dumping Rochester in a landslide. The Albert Lea B squad was their next victim and were beaten by their arch-rivals, Austin, by the comfortable margin of 44-26. Consecutive wins over Winona, Owatonna, and Faribault extended the winning streak to eight straight. The Albert Lea sophs again fell before Austins' deadly accurate with the basketball. They then polished off the Rochester B squad and Blooming Prairie to extend the win string.

In holding their last two opponents, Northfield and Red Wing to small totals and running up high scores themselves the Bees finished the season without a loss.

Prep Tankers

The Packer tanksters finished their 1949-1950 season with a fair record of four wins against three losses. This was an up-and-down season for the mermen but they showed improvement during the season.

Wins were scored against Winona twice, Macalester, and St. Thomas Military Academy. Losses were suffered against Rochester twice and the Carleton Frosh.

In the conference meet, Austin placed the following boys for state competition: Bill Rishavy, Bob Houston, Jim Kolb, Ken Pack, Tom Kough, Russ Wangen, Bob Wangen, and Earl Hallum. Hallum won the diving crown, while Kough won second to give Austin a fifth in the state.

Coach Vern Ojanpa hopes to have a number of boys returning for next year's squad.

Champion Diver

"Probably the most outstanding high school diver in the United States today, that's Earl Hallum," says Coach Vern Ojanpa. Earl received the all-American rating last year in his junior year and is certain to attain that high honor again.

Three-time Minnesota State Diving Champ, Big Nine champion four times, St. Paul Winter Carnival champion in 1949 and 1950, Minneapolis Aquatennial Champ in 1949 are the major achievements of this remarkable springboard ace.

Diving is not the only sport in which Earl is outstanding. He received honorable mention as a full-back in the state and as a high-jumper he placed first in the district in last spring's meet.

Since his sophomore year, honor student Earl has been only beaten once, and that by teammate Tom Kough, who has usually placed second to Earl throughout their high school careers.

Packer Wrestlers

Coaches "Sky" Wilcox and Ray Lemmerman again tutored the Austin wrestlers through another successful season. The matmen fell one match short of winning the Big Nine title by losing to the conference champions Owatonna, 22-17. They finished the season with a record of seven wins, against this one loss. Wins were scored against Northfield, Blue Earth twice, Rochester, Albert Lea, Winona and Faribault.

By sweeping ten weight divisions in the Sub-Regional at Blue Earth, the Packers picked up a total of 57 points. These ten boys were: Jesse Havens, Duane Hyland, Bob Hyland, Lowell Hyland, Dick Goslee, Jim Ingersoll, Carl Gaddis, Norbert Bawek, Eugene Cherney, and Dick Subra. Host Blue Earth copped second with 44 points. Oddly enough the three champions in the Sub-Region placed in the Regional for state competition.

In the Regional at Owatonna, Austin took second to the conference champs by getting 27 points to Owatonna's 33. Captain Bobby Hyland placed first in the 120-pound weight class, while Jesse Havens at 95 pounds and Dick Subra at 165 pounds, both took second.

On February 24 and 25, these three grapplers fought for berths on the All-State team in Williams Arena on the University of Minnesota campus. Points were picked up by Jesse Havens, who placed third, and Bob Hyland, who placed second. Dick Subra, the other Austin entrant fell before the 165-pound champion in the first round of competition.

Graduating lettermen are: Bob Hyland, Jim Ingersoll, Carl Gaddis, Eugene Cherney, Leon Dickman, Duane Brown, Gaylen Lastine, Clinton Hertle, Dick Subra, Henry Oots, Ray Miller and Charles Dial.

Along with new recruits up from the B squad Mr. Wilcox plans to have lettermen Jesse Havens, Dick Goslee, Norbert Bawek, Duane Hyland, and Lowell Hyland, returning to bolster title hopes for next year.

Junior Grapplers

With Ray Lemmerman and "Sky" Wilcox showing them the fundamentals of the age-old sport of wrestling, the B grapplers again came through the season with a clean record. Nine consecutive matches were won by them over strong opposition. Several men advanced to the A squad during the season while others gave the first stringers many hard work-outs.

They started out the season with a decisive 32-13 win over the Northfield B team. Then the B matsters tripped Waseca's A squad 39-8 and followed it up with a 35-8 win over them later in the season. A luckless Blue Earth eleven invaded the Baby Packer domain on December 8 only to be halted 29-6. One week later Rochester was dropped 39-8. After the Christmas vacation, Austin really hit its peak. First, they stopped Albert Lea 41-10, then they journeyed to Winona a week later to blank them 49-0. Owatonna had hopes of upsetting the high-flying Bees, but were downed 34-8. Likewise, Faribault was defeated 37-5.

Boys who will probably see action in one or the other weight divisions next season are: Ed Smith, Ray Goodew, Don Barnett, Bob Huff, Don Osmundson, Fred Schwanmberg, Jerry Secord, Bryce Wheeler, Kermit Gaughran, Glenn Moe, and Don Estes.

Spring Sports

Coach Wayne Puttman's rampaging Austin High Baseball squad turned over another impressive leaf in their record book. While losing only two games in conference play, they downed their opponents eleven times.

They jumped off to a winning start by winning four in a row before they were dropped by Albert Lea. They beat Northfield 5-0, for the Carleton Invitational Title.

Four more victories against one defeat put the prepsters in the Big Nine Tourney where they were edged out by Mankato 6-5.

At the State Tournament in Duluth, the Austin nine brought home the Consolation Title.

Track

With about 50 men turning out for track last spring, Coach Charles Willard developed a combination for the four meets in which Austin participated. Because he had no returning lettermen he was forced to start from scratch to rebuild the squad.

The team placed last in their division in the Comet Relays at Charles City. In the triangular meet with Albert Lea and Rochester the Packers again came out on bottom. At the Carleton Invitational, the Austinites made a good showing but failed to place. In the district, their final meet, they were again beaten by Albert Lea.

Golf

The 1949 golf team, under the tutorship of Coach Walt Lembcke, had a mediocre season in winning two and losing four matches. After losing the district to Albert Lea by a narrow margin, the linksters came back to capture third place in the Big Nine meet.

Floyd Bednar, the outstanding captain of the '49 squad, graduated last June, but Coach Lembcke hopes to build this year's squad around returning lettermen Lowell Jan, Allen Anderson, and Ronald Anderson.

Girls' Sports

Half a century ago girls dared not take an active interest in sports for fear of stepping across the social line. But times have changed and so have the girls. Nowadays the Girl's Athletic Association, otherwise known as the GAA, furnishes the girls a chance to enter all the sports that formerly were considered only for boys.

The GAA has a well-rounded program so as to insure that every girl can participate in the activity she likes best. Whether it's outdoor sports, work in gymnasium, bowling or swimming that most interests the girl, she can do them all in GAA.

Gutterballs and spares are common expressions at the Austin Bowl every Wednesday night when the girls' bowling teams get together during the winter months. The competition is keen here and spirits run high, especially when some lucky lass registers a strike in a crucial tenth frame.

For the girl who would rather paddle around in the water than bowl, there is the newly organized girls' swimming club, another phase in the activities of the GAA. These future aquatic stars meet every Tuesday night at the pool to practice synchronized swimming. Their activities this year were to be climaxed by a Water Follies Show.

Amazons at Play

Basketball, a favorite sport among many of the girls of the club, stepped in the limelight on February 4 this year when the neighboring clubs of Albert Lea, Rochester and Owatonna were entertained at a "playday" in the gym. The girls didn't play on a competitive basis, but were just out to have a good time playing basketball.

At their regular meetings every Thursday night the Junior and Senior branches of the club alternate between the swimming pool and the gymnasium. Basketball, volleyball, tumbling, and softball are the favorite games played by the girls in the gym, while those in the pool have fun diving and swimming. Formation swimming was introduced for the first time for use in the Water Follies. Misses Dorothy Hoos and Shirley Stageberg sponsor the groups.

Gym Classes

The Austin High School gym program is designed to benefit those in the seventh through the tenth grade. A variety of units are given to the pupils in gym throughout the school year. A unit might include such things as tumbling and stunts, apparatus or combatives, wrestling and boxing.

Safety is emphasized, along with cleanliness and sanitation. Everyone must take a shower after each class period. All participants must wear red shorts and white shirts, giving a uniform appearance. Minnesota Efficiency Tests are given in the fall and again in the spring to mark progress.

Sponsoring the sale of season basketball tickets was a new project of the Student Council this year. Students having these tickets were given reserved seats at the home games.

Along with this, the council has adopted a Navajo Indian School in New Mexico, is sending clothing to an Italian family, and is continuing its support of a school in Holland.

The group is under the supervision of Mr. Walter Rasmussen, and is headed by Walter Varco, and Grace Erickson.

Service Organizations

Assisting the teachers in charge of study halls is the job of the student supervisors. Students check the daily attendance, "okay" tardy and excuse blanks, and take attendance slips to the office.

The job of library supervisors is much the same, as they check attendance and do various other tasks freeing the librarians to attend to actual library matters.

Because the use of library materials has more than doubled in the past five years, the need for Library Service Club members has increased considerably. Members of this club have jobs such as shelving books, finding requested books, filing book and magazine cards, and countless others.

These people are of great value in assisting students and their adviser.

Hi-Y

Buying jackets for the wrestling squad has been one of the main service projects of the Hi-Y Club this year. They have also furnished the grade school basketball teams with some new uniforms.

A very impressive Fire of Friendship at the Carl Kehret farm started another year for the Hi-Y. Mr. Wallace Aos, assistant pastor at St. Olaf Lutheran Church, and several members of the club gave talks on international friendship.

The Hi-Y held a joint meeting with the Friendship Club on Valentine's Day to discuss the problems of dating. A picture entitled "Junior Prom" was shown after which a panel of six juniors and seniors discussed problems of the Prom, W. P. A. week, and ordinary dating procedures.

Bill Himmler and Dick Farris were elected by the group to take part in the Model Legislature sponsored by the YMCA. This Youth and Government program was held in St. Paul during April. Dick acted as Clerk of the House during the session.

Ushers and Cabinet

The two divisions of the Hi-Y Club are governed by a senior and a junior cabinet This year the officers of the senior division were: president, Russell Johnson; vice-president, Eugene Eppen; secretary, Carl Gaddis; treasurer, Bill Himmler; chaplain, Arthur Bustad; usher captain, Creighton Sayles; and candy shop, Dick Subra.

Officers of the junior group were: president, Dick Dastyck; vice-president, Fred Requa; secretary, Charles Christianson; treasurer, Gordon Barnes; chaplain, James Runquist; usher captain, Dick Hogan; and candy shop, Phil Denny.

The uniformed boys of the Usher's Club are a familiar sight at basketball games.

Advisers are Messrs. Robert Meinhard and Robert Roberts.

Senior Friendship

Membership month for the Senior Friendship Club was held during September this year, and resulted in the enrollment of about 330 senior high girls, an all-time high for the group.

Each month of the school year, a meeting with varied forms of entertainment is held for all members of the club. At each meeting, service and sociability are stressed in some way, in an effort to help the members become better acquainted, and be of greater service to their school and community.

The November meeting was devoted to a style show put on by the club members. The girls wore modern and old-fashioned clothing to represent the do's and don'ts of how to dress. Eva Bronner acted as mistress of ceremonies for the affair.

Pep Club

Taking charge of all homecoming activities is the main responsibility of the Pep Club, a group of fifty capable senior high girls. This job includes preparation for the snake dance, bonfire, coronation assembly and skit, the afternoon parade, and the dance following the homecoming game. Plans require a great amount of work.

The group is in charge of all pep assemblies, and during the past year, put on two skits beside the regular homecoming one.

Together with their regular meetings and work this year, the club members chartered a bus and attended two of the school's out-of-town games. They traveled to Rochester for a Big Nine football game, and attended the Austin-Owatonna basketball contest on January 27.

Miss Dorothy Hoos is club sponsor.

Junior High Friendship

Money has been put aside by the seventh and eighth grade Friendship Clubs for a gift to a Navajo Indian school in New Mexico. It has been adopted by the Student Council. Each member of the club also brought some small gift for the Indian school to their February meeting.

Betty Nestegard was crowned queen of the third annual Posture Contest. Nancy Orcutt and Nancy Bateman were the runners-up from the seventh and ninth grades. A Christmas Mother and Daughter Tea and a spring picnic were other highlights of the club year.

Miss Eleanor Carlson and Miss Rose Deutschman are the advisers of the seventh grade club; Miss Marguerite Daily and Miss Amanda Horvei of the eighth grade club.

Latin Club

Miss Margaret Scarseth, Latin Club adviser, spent last summer making a tour of Europe. She visited many well-known sights and landmarks, and brought back a good deal of information on them. Her trip was the topic of one of the Latin Club meetings, where she showed the slides taken on her journey and explained each of them to the group. This meeting was open to Spanish and German students, and also to any teachers interested.

A Roman Dinner was held in October for all club members. Here the students were served in the old Roman manner, with those of higher rank being served by the lower-class slaves. Various members of the group also provided entertainment between courses of the banquet.

In December, the Latin Club sent a CARE package to a family in Italy, as their project for the month. In return they received a letter from the family, thanking them for their help. Since the letter was written in Italian, they asked the help of Mr. Donald Read in translating it.

Latin Club meetings include some actual speaking of Latin by the counsuls. Officers for the past year were Joan McGinnity and Dauna Crawford, consuls; Amy Weseman, secretary; and Kay Tracy, treasurer.

Science and Language Clubs

Another busy year was in store for the Junior Academy of Science with scientific projects, reports, and tours.

Ida Guild, an outstanding member of the club, received an Honorable Mention in the Westinghouse Talent Search.

In addition to a report from each member on his yearly project, tours were taken through the Hormel Institute and the Junior College science laboratories.

This year the state meeting of the Junior Academy of Science was held in Rochester, May 6.

Mr. Gordon Lonning and Mr. Ray Wistrcill are the advisers of the club.

An interesting project of the Spanish Club was the exchange of a scrapbook with a Latin American country. Description of Austin, school activities, and civic events were some of the things included in this scrapbook.

The club is organized into four divisions: music, art, dramatics, and sports. Each member chooses one group and concentrates on that particular topic in relation to Latin America and Spain.

Spanish Club, along with Latin Club and the German classes, planned and carried out an assembly on March 3.

Miss Evelyn Stolfus is the adviser.

Austinian

The Austinian staff, headed by Joan Whitman, Dick Knowlton, and John Jones, has put in a busy year of work mixed with interesting and educational events. Taking pictures, finding identification, writing copy, collecting ads, planning layouts, and silk screening end sheets are all in a day's work for the members of the staff.

Several members of the combined Austinian and Sentinel staffs attended the annual press convention which was held for two days during September at the University of Minnesota. Linda Pugh and Ardeth Miller received an award for the art work on the cover and the end sheets. An action shot of basketball brought Dick Hanson a first place in state photographic competition.

The Austinian staff was also represented at the Big Nine Yearbook Conference held at Faribault this year. Mr. Otto Quale, associate director of the National Scholastic Press Association, was the main speaker at this fourth annual convention. Ten members of the staff and Miss Lillias Davis, adviser, attended the one-day meeting.

The Sentinel and the Austinian, which have been consistent All-American winners, were raised to the larger school bracket for rating this year because of the increased student enrollment.

To keep in the Yuletide spirit the combined staffs held a Christmas party at the Gildner home west of Austin. Members enjoyed a potluck supper and games.

Publications

Journalism classes, teamed with the staff heads, Marilyn Johnson, Marilyn Haydon, Ken Berry, and Betty Robbins, produced another hit school paper.

This year, with the slight increase in subscriptions, The Sentinel was able to allow more cuts to appear in the bi-monthly paper. Such columns as "That's Life" by Dynamite Don Freeberg brought much life to The Sentinel.

The Sentinel was awarded a Certificate of Honor in the Christmas Seal school press project for publicity about tuberculosis.

Nineteen new Quill and Scroll members were announced during the third quarter. Marilyn Johnson and Betty Robbins were members last year.

Dixie Ingersoll and Marie Lou Regner combined their editing efforts to bring to the press an improved and more interesting Junior High Daze. The Daze copy was written entirely by junior high school reporters, who also helped to put the paper together after processing.

Late in the year the Journalism Banquet was held for the Austinian staff and those on the Sentinel staff who had contributed the required number of printed copy inches for the paper. Also at this annual event the staff heads for the 1951 Sentinel and Austinian were announced.

School Safety

Although the Hall Patrol boys sometimes provoke students by their commands, these boys are very necessary to the high school. Their job is to watch students and keep them from injuring others.

The Safety Patrol plays an important part in maintaining safety outside the school. These boys are stationed morning, noon, and after school on various corners around the building, making sure students and motorists don't cross the same corner at the same time.

Mr. Richard White supervises the group.

Music Groups Grow

This year's music department tried to please all its listeners in some way. Music ranging from "Darktown Strutters Ball" and "Great Day" to "Orpheus in the Underworld" was presented to the public by the senior band, orchestra, and chorus.

Public concerts by the junior and senior music groups have become events looked forward to by the community. The students themselves conscientiously put in many hours of practice for these concerts in order that they will be a success.

All work and no relaxation is not the aim of the department. Numerous out-of-town trips by the groups add variety and scintillation to their work. The chorus went to Spring Valley to present an assembly and the orchestra was featured at the Midwinter Music Clinic in Minneapolis. The most important trip to the students, however, is the annual Big Nine Music Festival.

It is amazing to view panoramically the progress made by Austin High School's music department over the last fifty years. Since it started as an extra-curricular activity, it has grown to become a vital subject. At their annual meeting last fall, the faculty members listed three objectives of the department: To develop a vital appreciation of music in every student; To develop an active musical amateurism in the student; To develop artistry and leadership for the gifted.

Music is an omnipresent factor of the students' daily life and it gives to the student a background in a vital part of humanity.

Band Builds Pep

The orchestra is seven years older than the band, but the band has also been a leader in Austin High's music department. Austin's band plays just as an important part in the students' lives as the football team or any other activity.

Today there are approximately 300 students in grade and high school groups playing woodwind, brass, or percussion instruments. Many products of the music department go into military service bands, dance bands, or in some other way become professional musicians with the background given them by Austin High School.

Strings Form Nucleus

The oldest and most dignified instrumental group in our high school is the senior orchestra. This group has progressed from seven members to 70 members in 30 years.

The highlight of the current orchestra program was a trip to Minneapolis to be featured at the Mid-winter Music Clinic. The feature selection by the orchestra at this clinic was Offenbach's "Orpheus in the Underworld" overture. Gail Hewitt was soloist.

Mr. Paul O. Heltne was the conductor, and Miss Norene Marshall was string instructor.

Choruses Join Forces

In order to gain a sufficient amount of points for a music award, many students do extra-curricular work in music. Most of this work is done in music ensembles or in solos.

Their work builds up confidence and experience for students who wish to make music their life work. These student ensembles entertain at assemblies, concerts, or at other school functions. Many try out for the district music contest which is held at Austin in April. Quite a few of these groups are formed just for the students' own personal satisfaction and enjoyment.

These same groups frequently participate in talent shows and youth opportunity programs for cash awards and opportunities for success.

The most outstanding groups were a junior high boys' quartet, a girls' trio, and a senior high boys' glee club. The most outstanding soloist was Gail Hewitt, violinist, who has studied three years at Interlochen International Music Camp.

It is interesting to note how far the music department has progressed since the introduction of an orchestra of six members and a glee club of fifteen girls. Music teachers try to guide each student individually and attempt to give him as much help as possible.

Vocalists Star

Contrary to the thought that size in a choir would be detrimental to its quality is the fact that here we have a one-hundred voice choir of superb quality. From the first day of school through commencement, the choristers are heard five days a week rehearsing and vocalizing.

A supplement to the chorus is the Girls' Glee Club which meets weekly for rehearsals. Mr. Paul O. Heltne directs both of these organizations.

The annual highlight on the chorus agenda is the Christmas Concert. At this affair, the choirs combine their talents with the seventh and eighth grade music students to form a three-hundred voice chorus. This group presents a thrilling program of anthems, lullabies, and carols.

We Like Music

Preparing for advanced work in senior high school is the work of the junior high music department.

Excellent training and background for appreciation and harmony are offered the youngsters in junior high. In seventh and eighth grade music classes, classics and folk music are stressed as they are in junior orchestra, chorus, and band. There is a place for beginners too—for example, the beginners' band.

The latest addition to junior high group singing is a new boys' quartet which may be just as good as the "Bel Canto" quartette, famous several years ago.

Hail Martial Strains

Junior high students take a real interest in music as has been shown in the huge enrollment in music electives: chorus, orchestra and band. Over one hundred students sing in the junior chorus and around seventy are in the junior band and orchestra. The beginners' band also showed a marked rise in enrollment.

The junior band boasts of a fine troup of young majorettes who aspire to become candidates for senior band. All the necessary training is offered these girls.

Plans are being made for the installment of a third orchestra. This will probably be an intermediate group between the two present orchestras.

Dirk and Bauble Performs

Dirk and Bauble is the ultimate goal of all student lovers of dramatics and stage. Admission is granted to all juniors and seniors who have participated in any dramatic production in Austin Senior High School and have earned a sufficient amount of points through service.

By service is meant work on committees, work in the cast, work on the production, or ticket sales. This work offers a great deal of experience to the students and many plan to make the stage their life work.

The club this year produced two assemblies and a number of short plays and skits for civic meetings. A trip to Minneapolis to attend a professional dramatic production was planned.

Officers of the club this year were: Donna Mellem, president; Joann Morris, vice-president; and Rosemary Evans, secretary-treasurer.

Thespians Initiate

A very talented dramatic organization in Austin High School this year was the Thespians. This club was composed entirely of sophomores, and was ably advised by Miss Lorna Bates.

The club presented four one-act plays in two assemblies, much to the approval of the students.

The club offers to young dramatists a chance to become acquainted with the stage from behind the lights as well as in front of them. The members learn to put on make-up, how to organize the stage, how to obtain props, and most important, how to act effectively.

Points toward Dirk and Bauble are also awarded to the club members for their dramatic participation.

The officers of this year's club are: president, Joan McGinnity; vice-president, Virginia Harbo; secretary, Barbara Burton; treasurer, Betty Rasmussen.

"Out of the Frying Pan"

"Lights! Action! Curtain!" These words rang in the ears of the junior thespians who participated in the junior class presentation of "Out of The Frying Pan", by Eileen Leslie.

The play was a hit in Austin as it was on Broadway. When six young actors (three boys and three girls) go to New York to find theatrical work and live in the same apartment, a riot is sure to result. Sure enough, it did.

The excellent cast was topped with a capable director. Grace Randall, Jean Mooney, Ardeth Miller, Marlene Neste, Frances Flitton, Gordon Farnsworth, Lawrence Young, William Butler, Gordon Barnes, Richard Hogan, Maynard Weiss, and James Larson comprised the cast. The play was under direction of Miss Gretchen Myers, and Elizabeth Wells was student director.

The play was packed with comedy, romance, and suspense. Proceeds of the play go toward the expenses of the prom and junior-senior field day.

Owatonna Has Festival

The biggest event of Austin high school's Music Department is the annual Big Nine Music Festival. It was held last year at Owatonna with over 225 members of the senior chorus, orchestra, and band attending.

The music groups work hard all year in order that they will make a good impression. The students spent their entire free time making friends with other students and spreading good will to other Big Nine schools. The music was judged and rated by outstanding music instructors from the Northwest. Austin received a favorable rating on all three music groups.

The best musicians from each organization were chosen to represent Austin in the select band, orchestra, and chorus. These select organizations of students from all nine schools gave an evening concert.

The most colorful feature of the festival was, as every year, the parade of the Big Nine bands. Watchers were lined for blocks to view the spectacle and it was greatly approved by them.

Work and Play

During the last half century students at Austin High have been extra lucky. They have had the opportunity to develop their skills for almost any career they want to try. Counselors are provided to help the students choose courses wisely.

Those who know that college lies ahead can do much to prepare for it. They can study subjects that will make college work easier.

Jobs may be the immediate outlook for many students. Mr. Harold Kannady, coordinator, can be of much assistance along this line. For those who have not yet decided their life work, plans can be made after graduation.

School can be fun with its extracurricular activities and outside work if a happy attitude is taken toward obtaining the best results from the time spent.

Promward Bound

Eldora Anderson, Dick Subra

"Two Silhouettes," a new and appealing theme, was the 1949 Prom note. Clift Keyes and his orchestra supplied the music, dream stuff for any prom. The Terp Ballroom was the site. Because of the ever-increasing number of students, the school cafeteria has been outgrown as the site of the annual get-together. Holding the dance at the Terp also eliminates much of the decorating problem.

"Who's your date?" "What color is your formal?" and "Where are you going afterwards?" were questions that floated around the junior and senior corridors a few weeks preceding the annual spring prom. The trend changed this year as girls turned to green and white dresses instead of the old favorites, pink and blue. Few flowered or plaid frocks were seen.

Juniors as usual had charge of arrangements. Committee members worked diligently under the able direction of their chairmen. Betty Robbins had charge of publicity, La Vonne Peterson was chairman of the band committee, and Don Freeburg supervised invitations.

Pre-prom dinners were important social items. Some parties were held in private homes while others met at the Bowl or the Country Club.

lling at Prom Time

Roses and gardenias won the popularity contest in the corsage field, but almost every kind of flower was represented on some girl's shoulder. Entire allowances went to buy orchids in some cases. Most corsages were worn on the shoulder, but some girls favored hair or wrist arrangements.

The traditionally favorite dance of the prom was the Grand March. It was led by Dick Shipe, Jean Hocker, Carroll Goodew, Lois Hopie, Earl Hallum, Audrey Plath, Dick Knowlton, and Carolyn Miller.

About midnight, students and chaperones started drifting away to engage in America's favorite pastime, eating. Many adjourned to private homes again. Many of these parties included playing games, singing, or just relaxing and resting after the dancing.

Juniors, happily and enthusiastically looking forward to their next prom as guests, were satisfied with the party they had planned. Seniors said they had been royally entertained.

Even if the time left for dreaming was short, couples called, "pleasant dreams," as they parted from their friends.

School board and administration were among the guests of honor, while junior home room teachers were official chaperones.

Coronation

Spectators, sitting comfortably in the stadium on both sides of the track, witnessed one of the biggest and best Homecoming parades Austin ever had.

With the paving work still under way, Main Street was not available for the annual march; consequently the line was rerouted out Maple Street to the Athletic Field.

Queen Carolyn Miller and her equally charming maids, Audrey Plath, Lois Hopfe, Dorothy Sjoquist, and Jeanne Nestegard, claimed the spotlight in their pastel formals with colorful arm bouquets of chrysanthemums. The program was changed slightly this year, and no king was elected.

A covered-wagon float with its armed guards and distinctive slogans captured first prize. This unique and outstanding float was the work of Homeroom 205. Second prize was awarded to Homeroom 304 whose float depicted a queen and her court complete with court jester and red and white roses in the background. The third prize winner was Homeroom 230 with the Little Black Sambo theme which is used almost every year.

Homecoming

Senior high students joined the festivities at the Bonfire, where cheers and school songs were sung, under the able guidance of Freddie Paulson and the cheerleader squad.

Hayseed Hastings and his Mountain Boys was the theme of the Pep Club skit. This skit is a much-looked-forward-to affair as a spirit booster.

Then came the climax—the playing of the game with the all-powerful Tigers. Albert Lea knew it was our homecoming and were out to dampen our spirits by winning the game, but Austin's football players are hard to step on, especially without a fight. They decided not to let the Albert Lea team outplay them, or disillusion their fans, so as it is their policy when they have made up their minds. the Packers won the game, 24-6.

During half time, the fans were entertained by the Austin high school band and the three winning homeroom floats were present. Even as the majorettes shivered, they put on a splendid display of Austin's beauty and baton talent while the Queen and her court rode by the reviewing stands.

Participation Keynotes

When the wind is blowing and the snow is falling, it's the season for students to bring their lunches or buy them in the cafeteria.

What to do with this vast number of students between the time they finish their lunch until their fifth hour class begins created somewhat of a problem, but not for long. Several teachers volunteered to give up their regular noon hours to supervise activities in the school building.

For the ambitious students the library and typing rooms are open every day. For those who aren't well behaved all the time, detention contracts can be filled in study hall.

Most students, however, are eager for recreation during their noon hours. For these, a variety of activities has been planned to suit individual preferences.

Mondays offer dancing in the old gym, where the girls have a hard time inducing the boys to dance. Ping-pong in the Old Cafeteria and chess in Room 101 holds the interest of a majority of the boys.

Bigger and better than ever this year is the Tuesday Talent Show.

Noon-Hour Activities

The most popular and outstanding features of this noon-hour program are the movies held in the large auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday. Five cents is the price charged for tickets for these films, but if students forget to bring the meager sum, some friends can usually provide it. As in past years, the younger set would be very disappointed if one of these movies was not a rip-roaring Western. Thursday is the regular day for these big thrillers. Both Western and standard serials are followed with much interest by a majority of the noon-hour stayers.

On Friday the program is switched back to dancing, and the girls are again faced with the problem of finding partners, because the boys return to ping pong and chess.

Voluntary student supervision by some students is given in study halls, library, typing rooms, movies or on the hall patrol before regular students come back.

This program usually lasts from November until the middle of April, when students are requested to leave the building.

Visiting Talent

When school starts to get routine, assemblies are a good medium for lifting the spirit. "Assembly this morning at 9:33", read over the public address system by Principal Ray M. Wescott starts students buzzin'. Most students, however, already know when an assembly is scheduled and tell others what it's about, who's in it, and how long they expect it to last.

This year brought an unusual variety of assembly programs to Austin. Of special interest to those studying electricity was Mr. C. E. Jones' assembly on "Electronics." He demonstrated and explained the principles of the neon sign and of a mechanical man. The mechanical man was operated by means of a microphone and could move its arms and nod its head.

A group of birds called Pamahasika Pets were presented in a different and amusing assembly. There were birds of different kinds and colors, and a monkey.

The Stokes Hallelujah Quintet, composed of Negroes, put on a popular musical assembly. Their talent in singing covered every phase of music from classical to popular.

The Howell Glass Blowers, who have studied the art of glass blowing through many generations in their family, tried to prove glass blowing was simple. They made different objects of beauty and fragility all from tubes of highly heated glass.

Learning By Seeing

Mr. Elzie Brown, known for his mental wizardry, tried to teach the students how easy it was to memorize large numbers or long lists of grocery items.

A most memorable production was the concert presented by the Iowa State College Symphony Orchestra. Soloist Ilza Niemack played the first movement from Allegro Non Troppo. "Peter and the Wolf," narrated by Ray Giese, was aimed at the junior high but held the interest of senior high students and teachers as well. A very popular orchestra, this group made many appearances all over northern Iowa and southern Minnesota.

Music talent presented by our own students is very much appreciated. Junior and senior bands, the orchestras, and choirs are all-student presentations. One of the most outstanding of these was the annual Christmas concert. Senior band concerts were also delightful. Many times these same assembly programs are presented to the public in the evenings for the enjoyment of those who appreciate student talent and effort.

Pep assemblies or those presenting athletes, such as football or basketball players, held a high place among the athletic-minded Austin students. Pep skits were usually the work of the Pep Club and were received with much enthusiasm whenever they were held.

Also not to be forgotten are the assemblies given on Armistice Day and presenting the new members of the National Honor Society.

School Mixers

More honorary than social is the annual award given by the DAR to the girl voted by her senior classmates and her teachers as the outstanding citizen of the class.

This year, the award went to Audrey Plath. Audrey was presented with a Pilgrim's Pin at the award tea held at the YWCA on March 2. She represented the Red Cedar chapter of DAR at the state convention in St. Paul later in the month.

Among the routine pleasant social events are the mixers held following games. Whenever possible, bands are engaged to play. In their absence, records are used to provide the music.

Those with gruesome minds are the ones who usually have hair-raising Halloween parties in which unsuspecting party-goers are scared out of ten year's growth. This spirit goes as quickly as it comes, and by Christmas time, hosts or hostesses are inviting the gang over for a taffy pull, to make popcorn balls, fudge, or just to sing carols.

Class Frolics

February heralds one of the top social affairs of the year—none other than WPA week. Big preparations are made for this week, climaxed by a pre-Lenten dance.

Wiener roasts and picnics are popular and fun both fall and spring. Clubs such as the Hi-Y, GAA, and Senior Friendship often include one such frolic for members.

On these occasions, students pour out their accumulated energy and pep. Teachers, accompanying the excursions either as chaperones or as guests, say they really appreciate such a delightful change from ordinary school routine.

Of all the picnics held during the year, chief is the one enjoyed by the seniors on their annual skip day. The traditional all-day picnic is held in May, usually at Todd Park. Free to sing, dance, play, and rest as they choose, the seniors are the envy of all other students.

Together with the potluck suppers and more formal social get-togethers, picnics are enthusiastically attended. Most of these activities are open to students of ninth grade and on through the senior high school.

Field Day Has Showers

When spring comes 'round and spring fever has taken hold of a greater share of the students, the only day they awake bright and full of pep is Junior-Senior Field Day.

Upper classmen, not required to attend classes start wandering through the halls early in the morning, laughing and joking outside classrooms. They, of course, can remember the day when they enviously watched older students doing the same thing on their day off.

Teacher advisers help to start the contests between the boys and girls. Softball, volleyball, soccer, football and baseball hold the interests all morning. At eleven o'clock sunburned contestants leave for needed nourishment provided in the large cafeteria.

After juniors and seniors reassemble at the field, new contests are started. Relay races, hurdle races, barrel races and chicken fights go into full swing.

When the underclassmen arrive everyone is ready for the traditional tug o'war. Last year the juniors were victorious in pulling the seniors through the firemen's hose in boys and girls' tug o' war. This would hardly have been necessary because the skies blackened and everyone got a soaking.

The wetting failed to dampen spirits, and sunburned arms and noses appeared at the mixer.

Girl Dates Boy

Are Austin's girls bashful? Do they neglect the boys in any way? These would be needless questions if you had observed the activity around the WPA booth February 15-17.

WPA means "Women Pay All," although some boys give out with a different version —"We Pay Anyway." Just to prove that isn't so, many girls bravely asked the love of their lives for dates, all expenses paid.

This old tradition of girl dates boy has a charter governing its proceedings, of course, for the protection of the boys.

For example, girls may date boys whenever they are financially able. They must not allow the boy to become fatigued. They must let him win all arguments even if they are wrong. They must carry the boys' books, and open doors and let the boys enter first.

On the first night of WPA week, boys were taken to see the senior class play. On Friday night, the important Rochester game was their special treat, after which a special mixer was held in the large cafeteria with music supplied by Henry Charles' orchestra.

The next week saw activities returned to normal with the girls still carrying their own book, opening their own doors, and still losing arguments with the boys.

We Learn Hobbies

Required and elective courses not only supply a variety to choose from for year to year, but help the students make long-range plans for the future.

Art, home economics, and woodworking may have a direct bearing on a student's life work, and they certainly help to provide hobbies that make day-to-day life happier.

Working in different offices throughout the school building like the attendance office, the building superintendent's office or the nurse's office give us a knowledge of how the school works and why rules and regulations must be made.

Our Jobs Help

A large majority of Austin High students are engaged in the part-time work program. Since many of these students will continue work instead of going to college, their placement in jobs is very important.

Not only do these jobs expand the fundamentals taught in school but they also give experience in meeting the public, enlarge student's capacity for taking over responsibilities and broaden their personality and character traits. Working with others their own age or with older people can help those who are timid to build up their confidence and urge themselves on to better jobs.

Mr. Harold Kannady, school coordinator, is especially helpful to one who plans to work. He has records of student's progress in their school work, recommendations from their teachers and, from personal interviews, can tell what jobs a person is best suited for or what would best hold his interest. The most capable workers are given preference, as the students Mr. Kannady sends out are a direct reflection on the school.

Vocational courses try, as far as possible, to put the students in exactly the situations they would meet on the job. Dependability is a large factor which is continually being developed. If students can handle these situations in school, it is likely they can handle them if someone is depending on them.

Who Will Succeed?

Teachers help considerably in influencing students to be self-sufficient and independent. Those who have high ambitions and ideals of their own are the most likely to succeed.

A great number of these students start their working careers as clerks. Salesmanship, which demands tact, pleasantness, and a knowledge of the particular business, can be studied in school, and can be developed to its greatest extent through experience. Girls may also work their way into bookkeeping or secretarial positions and boys into manager or executive openings.

Comptometry and bookkeeping are leaders as the best choice for job-seekers. Businss courses are followed by many of the girls. Shorthand, typing and secretarial tarining give them the background materials for becoming good secretaries and stenographers.

Hormels employ a great many graduating girls and every year offer opportunities for students to take clerical, comptometry, and stenographic tests. Boys, too, have a chance to take these tests and, if proved capable, can hold the same office jobs as girls.

Visits to different business places such as the telephone office, the telegraph office, and the Hormel offices, give the business students an idea of how the community operates. They see the duties and responsibilities of the people who hold these jobs and can decide if they possess these qualities.

Domestic work, such as housekeeping, caring for children or old people, can be of invaluable aid to girls who will some day be interested in raising families of their own. Nurses aides at St. Olaf hospital, even if they do not plan to be nurses, can learn much to help make their own lives happier.

Boys have a chance to study courses just as exacting and technical in preparation for future jobs. Shop, electricity, woodworking, auto mechanics, and agriculture provide a variety of different courses for almost any boy, regardless of his particular interests.

Jobs Have Their Place

Variety is the keynote of work for which high school students may apply.

A large percentage of upper classmen work after school and over week-ends, and a similar group is excused part of the school day to go to work early.

Office workers may spend their time filing, typing, bookkeeping, operating a comptometer or other calculator, or doing stenograhic duties. Sometimes they find other duties creeping in and they enjoy the change. One bookkeeper also passes ice cream cones across the counter to the younger trade. A file clerk in an optical office finds that much of her work lies in going to and from the post office. Boys working in grocery stores learn to keep fruits and vegetables fresh and attractive to look at.

Clerking in retail stores or doing stock work in wholesale warehouses occupies some students. The clerking jobs are most numerous at Christmas time when many part-time workers are added in local stores.

College Draws Workers

The Swine Institute, held here at Austin, and the Cattle Congress held at Waterloo, Iowa, and other farming conventions are followed with interest by rural boys. They are excused from their classes to attend such conventions if they can benefit from them.

Earning money for college is the prompter for many part-time jobs. Helping to provide this money which might otherwise have to come from their parents gives the students a feeling of satisfaction and maturity. What they save now can be added to what they already have or will earn during the summer vacation.

Even if college work is taken up after a few years, work experience helps to develop qualities desirable for college students. Working as beginners and for someone else not only creates originality, but also initiative and industry. It makes students realize they have themselves on whom to depend to get their work done.

Those fortunate enough to have part-time jobs while still in school will benefit both now and in their future lives.

Serving While Learning

The rule rather than the exception at Austin High is to help fellow men.

Through organizations to which students belong here at school, they can definitely live up to this rule. Good examples would be the Usher's Club and the Waitress Club.

Class plays afford an opportunity for the boys who belong to the Usher's Club to prove their willingness to be a help to the public. Learning to serve others now will make it easier after graduation.

The most popular club for boys, the Hi-Y, and the most popular club for girls, Senior Friendship, teamed up this year to present a panel on a timely subject, boy-girl relations. Through such a joint meeting, both sides of the problem could be presented. How and when to get Prom dates was one of the leading questions.

Some Choose College

Each year arrangements are made for representatives from different colleges to come to Austin to give information needed by students.

The courses offered, the expense, and the social and recreational advantages are important factors in choosing a college.

By the time the senior year comes around, most students have already decided which college they prefer and have made arrangements for enrollment. Because of the large numbers now attending colleges, applications must be sent in early.

Help in planning what college to attend or what major to choose is not a serious problem at Austin High School. Trained advisers are provided to discuss and plan with any student who needs additional help. Mr. Walter Rasmussen and Miss Lena B. Grinley are available at all times to offer any assistance they can.

When I was just a little tot,
It was considered normal
To ask the local butcher man
For your good foods marked HORMEL.

Today we shop in super marts
The old butcher shop's no more.
But the label still is on display
In every first class store.

I buy your products when I shop
For I know they still excel.
But I've had to change my accent
And pronounce your name Hormel.

On the radio show, "The Hormel Girls"
(delightful and amusing)
Some girls speak of Hormel meats
And some, Hormel ... confusing.

Instead of trying to pronounce it,
I'll ask for the best they sell.
And every market will know I want
Aich-o,-Arr-Em,-Ee-Ell.

P.S. LISTEN to MUSIC WITH THE HORMEL GIRLS . . . swell Sunday afternoon program at 5:30 on KAUS (1480) and KATE (1450).

A FREE PRESS . . .

Is it merely an accident that those countries which have a free press, also have a free people? Most Americans realize it is more than coincidence. They have learned that the right of newspapers to seek out and publish the truth without fear of reprisal is their only opportunity to know the facts on which they may excercise their freedom of choice. This is the essence of true democracy!

MEET THE HEAD MAN

Here's the head man of tomorrow—our youth of today! This fellow, and millions like him all over this nation, will be the businessmen, the farmers, the statesmen, the scientists, the professional men, the producers of tomorrow. We're all for him and we welcome every opportunity to be of service. This bank invites the accounts of young men and young women . . . . we have the services, facilities, and sincere desire to be of assistance to meet ALL the banking requirements of our future "head men" today and in the tomorrows to come. Make the Austin State Bank YOUR bank.
